DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Claim 12 calls for each baffle is sized or configured such than a discharge rate through an outlet remains substantially independent of the water depth. The specification clearly fails to enable one skilled in the art to make and/or use the invention as claimed. How is the flow rate independent of the water depth? This is contrary to fluid mechanics. For example,  $Q = AV$ , wherein  $Q$  is the flow rate,  $A$  is the area of opening and  $V$  is the velocity. The velocity is directly related to  $h$  of water depth. Therefore, one skilled in the art cannot make and/or use the invention as claimed. It is not clear how the baffle sizing or configuration allows the discharge rate to be independent of the water depth. The discharge rate is  $Q=AV$ , wherein  $A$  is the area of opening and  $V$  is the velocity.

See pages 127-129 of Fundamentals of Fluid Mechanics.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

3. The disclosed invention is inoperative and therefore lacks utility.
4. Claim 12 calls for each baffle is sized or configured such than a discharge rate through an outlet remains substantially independent of the water depth. The specification clearly fails to enable one skilled in the art to make and/or use the invention as claimed. How is the flow rate independent of the water depth? This is contrary to fluid mechanics. For example,  $Q = AV$ , wherein  $Q$  is the flow rate,  $A$  is the area of opening and  $V$  is the velocity. The velocity is directly related to  $h$  of water depth. Therefore, one skilled in the art cannot make and/or use the invention as claimed. It is not clear how the baffle sizing or configuration allows the discharge rate to be independent of the water depth. The discharge rate is  $Q=AV$ , wherein  $A$  is the area of opening and  $V$  is the velocity.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1,2 and 12 should be canceled.
6. Claims 4,5,7,11 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 10/19/10 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant fails to cancel claim 12 and/or argue why the above rejection is improper. Therefore, the above rejection stands.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
